The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation Staff

Bradley Brother's Legacy

In 1903, Lynde and Harry Bradley established a new business in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. It took courage and confidence for them to risk resources in a new venture, based only on their judgment of what was and their vision of what could be. The Bradleys' confidence was bolstered by the knowledge that in America, not only were they free to start a business, they could also begin again if they failed. The Bradleys, however, would not fail. Their business grew to become the internationally recognized Allen-Bradley Company.

When the Allen-Bradley Company was acquired by Rockwell International Corporation in 1985, a significant portion of the proceeds was dedicated to establishing The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation. Although it has no direct ties to the Allen-Bradley Company, the purpose of the Foundation is to commemorate Lynde and Harry Bradley by preserving and extending the principles and philosophy by which they lived and upon which they built their company. As their efforts succeeded, their business grew and eventually extended far beyond its Milwaukee headquarters. Lynde and Harry Bradley remained devoted to the city where they began their enterprise and in which they lived and worked for so many years. Thus, the Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation is proud to continue its commitment to improving the quality of life in the Milwaukee metropolitan area and throughout southeastern Wisconsin.

The Bradleys lived and worked according to several philosophical principles. They believed that, over time, the consequences of ideas were more decisive than the force of political or economic movements. They recognized the interdependence of human endeavors – cultural, educational, philosophical, economic – and they rejected exclusionary emphasis on any single element. The brothers had an abiding belief in the dignity and decency of each person. They felt that only in an environment of political and economic freedom could individuals develop their talents, hone their skills and intellects, and contribute to the improvement of the human condition. The success of the Allen-Bradley Company stands as eloquent testimony to the enduring quality of these principles.

The Bradley brothers were committed to preserving and defending the tradition of free representative government and private enterprise that has also enabled the American nation and, in a larger sense, the entire Western world to flourish intellectually and economically. The Bradleys believed that the good society is a free society. The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation is likewise devoted to strengthening American democratic capitalism and the institutions, principles and values that sustain and nurture it. Its programs support limited, competent government; a dynamic marketplace for economic, intellectual, and cultural activity; and a vigorous defense at home and abroad of American ideas and institutions. In addition, recognizing that responsible self-government depends on enlightened citizens and informed public opinion, the Foundation supports scholarly studies and academic achievement.

The Foundation's Board, on occasion, undertakes to define and redefine its current program interests. At present, the Foundation aims to encourage projects that focus on cultivating a renewed, healthier, and more vigorous sense of citizenship among the American people, and among peoples of other nations, as well.

The free society so central to the convictions and success of the Bradley brothers rests upon and is intended to nurture a solid foundation of competent, self-governing citizens, who are understood to be fully capable of and personally responsible for making the major political, economic, and moral decisions that shape their own lives, and the lives of their children. Such decisions are made on the basis of common sense, received wisdom, traditional values, and everyday moral understandings, which are in turn nurtured and passed on to future generations by healthy families, churches, neighborhoods, voluntary associations, schools, and other value-generating “mediating structures.”

This expansive understanding of citizenship is being challenged today, however, by contemporary forces and ideas that regard individuals more as passive and helpless victims of powerful external forces than as personally responsible, self-governing citizens, and that foster a deep skepticism about citizenly values and mediating structures. Consequently, authority and accountability tend to flow away from citizens toward centralized, bureaucratic, “service-providing” institutions that claim to be peculiarly equipped to cope with those external forces on behalf of their “clients.” This systematic disenfranchisement of the citizen, and the consequent erosion of citizenly mediating structures, pose grave threats to the free society that the Bradley brothers cherished.

In light of these considerations, projects likely to be supported by the Foundation will generally share these assumptions:

- They will treat free men and women as genuinely self-governing, personally responsible citizens, not as victims or clients.
- They will aim to restore the intellectual and cultural legitimacy of citizenly common sense, the received wisdom of experience, everyday morality, and personal character, refurbishing their roles as reliable guideposts of everyday life.
- They will seek to reinvigorate and reempower the traditional, local institutions – families, schools, churches, and neighborhoods – that provide training in and room for the exercise of genuine citizenship, that pass on everyday morality to the next generation, and that cultivate personal character.
- They will encourage decentralization of power and accountability away from centralized, bureaucratic, national institutions back to the states, localities, and revitalized mediating structures where citizenship is more fully realized.

In addition to these thematic considerations, eligible projects will exhibit these features:

- ✧ They may address any arena of public life – economics, politics, culture, or civil society – where citizenship as here understood is an important issue. It is important to note that our view of citizenship is not primarily concerned with promoting civics education, voter awareness or turn-out, or similar activities narrowly focused on voting and elections.
- ✧ They may address the problem of citizenship at home or abroad, where the fall of many (and the perpetuation of some) totalitarian regimes has made this issue particularly urgent.
- ✧ In light of our emphasis on decentralization, and considering the Foundation's deep roots in Milwaukee and Wisconsin – areas with proud traditions of innovation and experimentation in democratic citizenship – community and state projects will be of particular interest to us. Such projects will aim to improve the life of the community through increasing cultural and educational opportunities, grass-roots economic development, and effective and humane social and health services, reflecting where possible the Foundation's focus on the resuscitation of citizenship.
- ✧ Projects may be actual demonstrations of the resuscitation of citizenship in the economic, political, cultural, or social realms; policy research and writing about approaches encouraging that resuscitation; academic research and writing that explore the intellectual roots of citizenship, its decline, and prospects for revival; and popular writing and media projects that illustrate for a broader public audience the themes of citizenship.

Much of the creative and energetic leadership essential for a renewal of citizenship will be supplied by gifted individuals, who must receive challenging and stimulating programs and instruction at all levels of their education. The Foundation supports programs that research the needs of gifted children and techniques of providing education for students with superior skills and/or intelligence. Research programs investigating how learning occurs in gifted children and demonstration programs of instruction are to be considered.

The programs and funding decisions of the Bradley Foundation are the responsibility of the Board of Directors. At the discretion of the Board, the policies set forth herein will be modified in response to changing conditions and priorities.

The guidelines established by the Board of Directors will normally preclude funding for unspecified and undetailed overhead costs. No funds will be authorized for fees payable to fund-raising counsel. In addition, grants without significant import to the Foundation's areas of interest will only under special conditions be considered for endowment or deficit-financing purposes.

The Foundation will:

- Normally award grants only to organizations and institutions exempt from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and publicly supported under Section 509(a)(1), (2) or (3);
- Favor projects that are not normally financed by public tax funds;
- Consider requests for building projects and limit grants to a fraction of the total cost.

Grantees must possess the resources to properly administer grants from the Foundation. The Foundation conducts an annual evaluation of grants, and grantees are asked to provide periodic reports on the progress of their work.

Application Procedure

Two steps are required in the application process. First, the applicant should prepare a brief letter of inquiry to the Grants Program, describing the applying organization and its intended project. If the Foundation determines the project to be within the current program interests as determined by its Board of Directors, the applicant will be invited to submit a formal proposal.

Second, if invited to submit a formal proposal, the applicant should submit another letter. It should include a more-thorough, yet still concise description of the project, its objectives and significance, and the qualifications of the groups and individuals involved in it. It should also include a project budget, the specific amount being sought from the Bradley Foundation, and a list of other sources of support, philanthropic or otherwise.

The applicant should submit a copy of the Internal Revenue Service letter confirming the applying entity's tax-exempt and public-support status under Sections 501(c)(3) and 509(a), respectively, of the Internal Revenue Code.

Should the Foundation's program staff find it necessary or desirable, it may arrange a meeting with the applicant after the receipt of a written proposal. After the staff comprehensively reviews proposals, the Board acts on them. All grantmaking authority rests with the Board.

The Board of Directors meets four times a year. To be considered, full proposals should be submitted by February 1, May 1, August 1, and November 1. In most cases, staff is able to complete its reviews of proposals in time for the next scheduled Board meeting. Occasionally, it is not, or Board consideration is deferred to a later meeting.

Because of the necessarily limited resources of the Foundation, many worthwhile projects cannot be supported, of course. The demands on the Foundation's resources also limit the size of particular grants and the ability of the Foundation to make commitments for extended periods. For more information about the Bradley Foundation, including our guidelines for submitting proposals, please visit our website at www.bradleyfdn.org.

Bradley Prizes 2015

The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation awarded its 2015 Bradley Prizes to Hillsdale College President Larry Arnn, University of Virginia Professor James W. Ceaser, AHA Foundation founder Ayaan Hirsi Ali, and Chairman, Institute for the Study of War General Jack Keane, U. S. Army, Retired, in an inspiring and entertaining ceremony at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., on June 3. The $250,000 prizes recognize and celebrate the honorees' achievements in areas consistent with the Foundation's mission – the promotion of liberal democracy, democratic capitalism, and defense of American ideas and institutions at home and abroad.

2015 Bradley Prizes award recipients

Larry P. Arnn is President of Hillsdale College, a position he has held since 2000. From 1977 to 1980, Dr. Arnn studied at the London School of Economics and Oxford University. While in England, he served as Director of Research for Sir Martin Gilbert, the authorized biographer of Sir Winston Churchill. In 2012, Dr. Arnn assumed responsibility for editing the final six document volumes of the Churchill biography due to Sir Martin's declining health. Dr. Arnn returned to the United States in 1980 to become an editor for Public Research, Syndicated. In 1985, he became President of the Claremont Institute for the Study of Statesmanship and Political Philosophy. Later, he was Founding Chair of the California Civil Rights Initiative. Dr. Arnn has received an Alcoa Foundation Fellowship; a Richard M. Weaver Fellowship; a Rotary International Fellowship; Earhart Foundation Fellowships; and a Winston S. Churchill Association Fellowship. He has also received the U. S. Army's Outstanding Civilian Service Medal. Dr. Arnn is the author of Liberty and Learning: The Evolution of American Education; The Founder's Key: The Divine and Natural Connection between the Declaration and the Constitution and What We Risk by Losing It; and Churchill's Trial: Winston Churchill and the Salvation of Free Government. Dr. Arnn holds a doctorate in government from The Claremont Graduate School.

James W. Ceaser is the Harry F. Byrd Professor of Politics at the University of Virginia, where he has taught since 1976. He is also the director of the Program for Constitutionalism and Democracy at the University of Virginia and senior fellow at the Hoover Institution. Professor Ceaser has written several books on American politics and political thought, including Presidential Selection; Liberal Democracy and Political Science; Reconstructing America; Nature and History in American Political Development; and Designing a Polity. He has served as the Academic Chairman of the Jack Miller Center for the Teaching of America's Founding Principles and History since its inception in 2004. In 1996, the U. S. Army honored Professor Ceaser with The Joint Meritorious Unit Award for Total Engagement in the Creation of the George C. Marshall Center for European Security Studies, and President Bush appointed him as a member of the National Archive's National Historical Publications & Records Commission.

George Will,
Master of Ceremonies

Bradley Prizes

In 2015, Professor Ceaser received the Jeane Kirkpatrick Prize for Academic Freedom. He has held visiting professorships at the University of Florence, Oxford University, the University of Basel, Princeton University and the University of Bordeaux. He is a regular contributor to the opinion journals, and he comments frequently on American politics for La Voix d'Amérique, the French-African outlet for the Voice of America. A leading scholar in the fields of public diplomacy and civic education as well as American political thought, Professor Ceaser holds a Ph.D. from Harvard University.

Ayaan Hirsi Ali was born in Mogadishu, Somalia in 1969. As she grew up, she embraced Islam and strove to live as a devout Muslim. In 1992, Ayaan fled to the Netherlands to escape a forced marriage. There she was given asylum and, in time, citizenship. She quickly learned Dutch and was able to study at the University of Leiden. From 2003 to 2006, Ayaan served as an elected member of the Dutch parliament. She then moved to the U. S. and in 2007 founded the AHA Foundation to protect and defend the rights of women in the US from harmful traditional practices. Ayaan is a Fellow with the Future of Diplomacy Project at the Belfer Center for Science and International Affairs at Harvard University's Kennedy School, a visiting scholar at the American Enterprise Institute in Washington DC, and a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. She is the bestselling author of Infidel, and Heretic: Why Islam Needs A Reformation Now.

General John M. “Jack” Keane, U. S. Army, Retired, is president of GSI Consulting. He serves as chairman of the Board of Directors of the Institute for the Study of War and the Knollwood Foundation, is a director of General Dynamics, the Center for Strategic and Budgetary Assessments, the Smith Richardson Foundation, and a former and recent member, for 9 years, of the Secretary of Defense Policy Board. He is also a trustee of Fordham University, the George C. Marshall Foundation and an advisor to two foundations assisting U. S. veterans: Welcome Back Veterans and American Corporate Partners. A four-star general, he completed 37 years of public service in 2003, culminating in his appointment as acting Chief of Staff and Vice Chief of Staff of the U.S. Army. General Keane was in the Pentagon on 9/11 and provided oversight and support for the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq. Since 2004, he has conducted frequent trips to Iraq and Afghanistan for senior defense officials. He played a key role in formulating the surge strategy in Iraq. General Keane continues to advise senior government officials on national security affairs and frequently provides congressional testimony. He also serves as a national security analyst for Fox News and speaks throughout the country on national security issues. General Keane is a career infantry paratrooper and a combat veteran of Vietnam decorated for valor. He commanded the famed 101st Airborne Division and the legendary 18th Airborne Corps, the Army's largest war fighting organization. General Keane graduated from Fordham University with a Bachelor of Science degree and from Western Kentucky University with a Master of Arts degree. He is a graduate of the Army War College and the Command and General Staff College.

Bradley Directors with the 2015 Bradley Prizes award recipients

A college education has long been both a key ingredient to upward mobility and a crucial means of educating virtuous citizens. But as tuition and college debt have skyrocketed, graduation rates have fallen, and liberal education has been increasingly squeezed out of the curriculum, higher education has also become a major source of risk and anxiety for middle-class families.

Is the traditional college model sustainable? Will technology transform teaching and learning? Is there still room for real liberal education on our campuses?

The 2015 Bradley Symposium, The Future of Higher Education, asked and tried to answer these and other, related questions in Washington, D.C., in June. Speakers at the event included Purdue University president Mitchell E. Daniels, Jr., the American Enterprise Institute's Andrew P. Kelly, Berry College professor Peter Lawler, the Mercatus Center's Alexander Tabarrok, and Bradley Prize recipient Yuval Levin of the Ethics and Public Policy Center (EPPC) and National Affairs magazine.

The Bradley Symposium is sponsored by The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation in Milwaukee and co-hosted by EPPC and National Affairs.
