Bradley Prize Nomination of Herbert I. London

I would like to nominate Dr. Herbert I. London for the Bradley Prize. Herb's career has been one of extraordinary and continuing achievement. He has been an outstanding leader in education reform both as an advocate – twenty-three books and numerous articles – and an institution builder – founder of the innovative Gallatin Division at New York University, which led the way in bringing Great Books education to non-traditional students. He has also been a major conservative media presence as a columnist, television commentator, and producer of network public affairs programming.

In addition, Herb has been a candidate for several high offices and a significant figure in the conservative political movement in New York and nationally. Perhaps most important, his presidency of the Hudson Institute was transformative, reestablishing it as a major voice in the national conversation about foreign and defense policy, international security and counter-terrorism issues, economic affairs, and a wide variety of other political, social, and cultural subjects. He now serves as president of the London Center for Policy Research whose work is focused on terrorism and foreign policy.

From its inception, Herb has been one of the wisest voices within the National Association of Scholars, the organization I founded in 1987. Upon my departure for Texas Tech in 2012, Herb succeeded me as chairman of its board of directors, a post he also held at the time of the NAS's launch. I know from more than thirty years of collegueship that his commitment to America's interests and the cause of freedom is singular.

Herb London would be an unusually worthy recipient of the Bradley Prize.

Stephen H. Balch

Herbert I. London

10 West Street
New York, NY 10004

---

Herbert I. London is president of the London Center for Policy Research and senior fellow at the Manhattan Institute. He is the former president of the Hudson Institute. Dr. London is professor emeritus and the former John M. Olin Professor of Humanities at New York University. And he was responsible for creating the Gallatin School of Individualized Study in 1972 and was its dean until 1992. This school was organized to promote the study of "great books" and classic texts.

Herbert London is a graduate of Columbia University, 1960 and the recipient of a Ph.D. from New York University, 1966.

Dr. London is a noted social critic whose work has appeared in every major newspaper and journal in the country including such diverse publications as Commentary, National Review, American Spectator, Wall Street Journal, Fortune, Washington Times, New York Magazine, New York Times, Christian Science Monitor, Modern Age, Los Angeles Times, Washington Post, Orbis, Encounter, Forbes, and The New Criterion. He is the author and editor of twenty-eight books (see enclosure) and three plays "My Most Embarrassing Moment", "A Love That Cannot Speak Its Name" and "Mr. Tin Pan Alley."

In addition to Dr. London's television program, "Myths that Rule America," he created a 47 part C.B.S. series entitled "The American Character." He has been a guest lecturer on many major radio and television news programs and at colleges and universities and has appeared as co-host on the popular CNN program, "Crossfire." He is the chairman of the National Association of Scholars, and is the erstwhile editor of Academic Questions. Dr. London was Executive producer of "Rodney King Incident." He was formerly syndicated by Knight-Ridder and Bridge News. He is a contributing editor for St. Croix Review, American Arts Quarterly and The American Spectator. Dr. London wrote a monthly newsletter called The London Letter and a nationally syndicated column for King Features.

Dr. London is listed in the Outstanding People of the 21st Century; Directory of Distinguished Americans; Who's Who in Education; Who's Who in the East; Men of Distinction; Who's Who in America, Kingston's National Registry of Who's Who, and 2000 Outstanding Intellectuals of the 21st Century. He is a recipient of honorary degrees from the University of Aix-Marseille, 1983 and Grove City College, 1993. He has received a Presidential Citation from N.Y.U., is a recipient of the National Pro-Am Achievement Award, was the 1996 recipient of the Martin Luther King Award from the Congress of Racial Equality for Citizenship Achievement, was the 1997 recipient of the Jacques Maritain Society Award, was the first recipient of the Peter Shaw Award for his exemplary writing on higher education and American intellectual culture, was awarded the Templeton Honor Roll Award in 1997 as one of the nation's exemplary professors. In 2000, he received the Ellis Island Medal of Honor, in 2001 the American Jewish Congress Award, and in 2002 the Liberty and Media Award. In 2011, he received the Harbour League's Founders Award and in 2012 he was given the Jeane Kirkpatrick Academic Freedom Award from the Bradley Foundation.

In 1989, Dr. London was one of the Republican candidates for Mayor of New York City. In 1990 he was the Conservative Party Candidate for Governor of New York garnering more votes than any third party candidate in the state's history. In 1994 he was the Republican Party candidate for New York State Comptroller losing in a close election.

He is currently on the Board of Trustees for BlackRock Funds, the Board of Advisors for Cerego LLC and Cybersettle, the Board of Directors for InnoCentive; the Board of Governance for the American Jewish Congress; the Board of Trustees for the American Council on Science and Health; Chairman of the Board of Governors for Grantham University; Chairman of the Board of the National Association of Scholars; the Editorial Advisory Board for the Edmund Burke Institute; the Board of Directors of the Coalition for a Secure Driver's License; the Board of Directors of the National Association for Industry-Education Cooperation. He is contributing editor at The American Spectator, on the Board of Advisors of the Foundation for Individual Rights in Education, Inc., the Editorial Advisory Board for the Texas Education Review, and American Arts Quarterly and is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. He formerly served on the Board of Governors at St. John's College, the Board of Overseers at the Center for Naval Analyses and the board of the Hudson Institute. He is an affiliated professor at the University of Haifa in Israel. He is a member of the Union League Club.
